~Eyes~

"Crying, he tugged at the fringe of the woman's blanket. "Please, please." With her free hand she held him away. The whip came down again, and again Linda screamed." (126)

~Mouth~

"O brave new world," he repeated "O brave new world that has such people in it. Let's start at once."

"You have a most peculiar way of talking sometimes," said Bernard, staring at the young man in perplexing astonishment. "And anyhow, hadn't you better wait till you actually see the new world?" (139)

~Heart~

"Anger suddenly boiled up in him. Balked for the second time, the passion of his grief had found another outlet, was transformed into a passion of agonized rage" (204)

~Hands~

"It was to escape further contamination by filth of civilized life; it was to be purified and made good..." (pg 247)

~Feet~

"Slowly, very slowly, like two unhurried compass needles, the feet turned towards the right; north, north-east, east, south-east, south-south east; then paused, and after a few seconds, turned as unhurriedly back towards the left" (259)
